The 1000 origami cranes project is a worldwide movement that began in 1955, when a young Japanese girl named Sadako Sasaki was diagnosed with leukemia. Sadako believed that if she could fold 1000 paper cranes, she would be granted a wish. She folded hundreds of cranes before she passed away at the age of 12, but her story inspired others to continue the project in her memory.

Today, the 1000 origami cranes project is a symbol of hope and healing for people all over the world. Cranes are often folded and displayed in hospitals, hospices, and other places where people are struggling with illness or grief. They are also used to raise awareness of important causes, such as peace and environmental protection.

Folding 1000 origami cranes can be a challenging but rewarding experience. It takes time, patience, and dedication, but the results are truly beautiful. If you are looking for a way to show your support for someone who is struggling, or if you simply want to create a symbol of hope and peace, consider folding a few origami cranes.

How to Fold an Origami Crane

1. Start with a square piece of paper.
2. Fold the paper in half diagonally to create a triangle.
3. Unfold the paper and fold it in half the other way to create another triangle.
4. Unfold the paper and fold it in half vertically.
5. Unfold the paper and fold it in half horizontally.
6. Fold the top two corners of the paper down to the center crease.
7. Fold the bottom two corners of the paper up to the center crease.
8. Fold the top and bottom flaps of the paper down to the center crease.
9. Fold the left and right flaps of the paper up to the center crease.
