

Punch, Or The London Charivari Vol 147 December 16, 1914

Digital, Illustrated Magazine, Humour, Satire, Cartoon

Punch, Or The London Charivari was a weekly illustrated magazine that was published in London from 1841 to 1992. The magazine was known for its humour, satire, and cartoons, and it played an important role in British culture and society. Punch was founded by Henry Mayhew and Ebenezer Landells, and it was originally intended to be a satirical magazine that would poke fun at the political and social issues of the day. However, the magazine quickly evolved into a more general-interest publication, and it began to feature a wide range of articles, stories, and cartoons. Punch was a popular magazine with both the British public and the international community, and it was one of the most influential publications of its time.
