Chapter 2: The Crime Scene

The crime scene was both bizarre and disturbing. Zahau's body was found naked, with her hands tied behind her back and a rope tied around her neck. She had been sexually assaulted and there were signs of struggle. The room where her body was found was in disarray, with candles lit and paint spilled on the floor.

Chapter 3: The Suspects

The investigation quickly focused on three main suspects: Jonah Shacknai, his brother Adam, and a handyman named Jeffrey Nashton. Jonah Shacknai was initially considered a suspect due to his erratic behavior and the fact that he had been arguing with Zahau in the days leading up to her death. However, he was eventually ruled out as a suspect.

Adam Shacknai became a suspect after he was seen leaving the mansion shortly before Zahau's body was discovered. He claimed that he had been there to visit his brother, but there was evidence that suggested he had been involved in a struggle with Zahau.

Jeffrey Nashton was a handyman who had been working at the mansion for several weeks. He was initially seen as a possible witness, but his behavior and statements became increasingly suspicious.
