The Wright brothers were born in Dayton, Ohio, in the 1860s. They were both fascinated by science and technology from a young age. In 1899, they built their first glider, and in 1903, they made history by flying the world's first powered airplane.

The Wright brothers' achievement was the culmination of years of hard work and dedication. They were not only brilliant scientists and engineers, but also skilled pilots. They risked their lives time and time again to test their machines. Their courage and perseverance paid off, and they changed the world forever.

The Wright brothers' story is an inspiration to us all. It shows us that anything is possible if we set our minds to it. They dared to dream, and they made their dreams a reality. They are an example of what we can achieve when we work together and never give up.

The Wright Brothers and the Great Race for Flight is a thrilling account of this amazing story. It is a must-read for anyone who is interested in aviation, history, or human achievement.
